Good

We see that the editor of the organ is highly exercised now on the subject of law and order. He is getting in a good way; glowing with a virtuous indignation at outside regulators at elections. The determination of a few Democrats to assert for the voters rights that had usually been denied them in the First Ward, has stirred up all the law and order in the ed.tor. An error in the statement about the treatment of Strasburg in the Democrat, furnishes occasion for a lengthy correction and comment. The truth is, Strasburg had been driven from the Democrats, called regulators by the Journal, induced him to return, determined to protect him in the right to vote. At the second attempt to vote he was not interfered with until after he had voted. Then he was met in a joeular manner, by a friend, the Journal says, who reaching toward him to take a paper from his hand, asked him how he voted. How nice, indeed! Foreigners in this city understand such jokes at the polls. After the min had been driven from the polls by such friends, the joke couldn't we'll be misunderstood. If it was a joke, then Col. Preston's interference did no harm; his conduct was a ske too. Why, then, was an assault made answer. The extracts he has got republished upon him by a crowd of bullies? How came they there, if all was peaceable? What were they doing at the polls, ready to pitch into a fight? Why didu't they call on the police, instead of regulating matters themselves ' The organ-grinder can see great use for the police, and nobody else, when bullies obstruct the polls and drive off Demo ratic voters; but when Col. Prestoa interfere I to protect the voter who had already been once insulted and denied the right of suffrage, then the mob, not the police, are employed. These policemen have been tried This city understands exactly how they work. It used to be considered the business of the police to see that the polls were kept open, and that there should be noonts le interference with vo ters. But on Monlay list a voter could be knocked down without provocation; a man could stand in the door and declare that legal voters should unt vote, and carry out the threat with violent demonstrations. Where were the police? Oh, 't was only an ordinary disturbance. The police were tot called upon, and were not on hand. It was not the business of the police to be at the polls, to see that such occurences should not take place! One single policeman could have revented the obstruction of the polls; for it spicared to be the work of a few in aviduals acting on their own account. The origin of the difficulty, the Journal pretends to language and an assault, &c. But the voter, as well as the jocular friend could have explained i end of it. But the mob was immediately ready The natter abad dat that time. The edito of the organ evid ntly writes at random. He had better learn the facts. The simple story is that r _ lat rs malertook to drive voters from the poly, and earried out their undertaking Democrats determined to prevent it, and a mo was ready to attack them. The police could easily lave settled the matter; but the mo was r dy. It was on the ground prepared.

We shall not repeat what we have recited a that D mocrats were cisarmed and left, is pn in to flatter the courage and prowess of the ed for some time after all disturbance was over The organ forgets to state that the leader of the Americans (Gennet) was disarmed once o twice, and perhaps others. The editor is just now deeply affected for law and order; at the same time he is delighted with the mob that at tacked, with out reaso:, Col. Preston, and exag gerates their prowess, and ealls their discretion forbearance and magnanimity. He ha beretofore stirred up the ferocity of race and religion; n w he is striving to array the poor against the vich. He has not heard at all of the mob that stood at the polls and impudently swore that legal voters should not exercise the right of suffrage; that executed their threats with violence again and again. The most he can say is, that these were ordinary occurrences The determination of a few men that the elect we franchise should not thus be trampled under foot, is very shocking; and the mob ready to assail men who thus, after years of forbearance, determined to suffer no longer, meets with unqual fied praise from the editor of the Journal Now, we can assure the editor that he may shut his eyes to the outrages at the polls; to these ordinary occurrences; he may excuse and apol ogise for what it is impossible to deny; but the for the purpose of nominating a candidate for people of this city know perfectly well what has been done here at the polls, and it will not be submitted to any longer, in our opinion. Three or four years is as long as a party can be expect ed to wait for reformation. The police know perfectly well what these ordinary occurrences are at our elections. They could have prevented them long ago, if they would. The party that persistently tramples the rights of others under A foot, are alone responsible for consequences. Denials, excuses, apologies, and criminations of others don't make outrages any better, nor any more sufferable. The doctrine preached to outsiders to prevent fraudulent voting-that is voting that don't suit the brethren-at all hazards, 65. Buchanan's majority in November was 44. the cabinet maker for the chair, broke into the will necessarily lead to the determination at all hazards that legal voters shall not be driven from the polls. This lawless and treasonable practice must stop, if peace is hereafter to be crease the majority 25 or 30; his majority in expected; and stopped now. It might have Wheat's majority in Meade is reported 250. Illy good bye, but instead of going out of the door, he stole up stairs and secreted himself a few men, and the police could not say they could not prevent what was done. Constantly this matter has been urged, and yet the crime is repeated; and the police don't see it, and the organ denies it, or sees in it only an ordinary occurrence; and this infernal wrong is to be per-no party interest to neglect it; but still the same outrages are repeated. To be sure, only While Colonel Jones is wasting his time and to meet the responsibility of violating the law. In the mean time, it is easy to prevent all these disturbances, if the authorities please. It was there was not the slightest disturbance.

We are represented as accusing the American party with the mob at the polls in the abilities of our candidate for Transurer, James II. Bar Pard, of Royle county, and will give him our hearty sup First Ward. We have done no such thing. Fare The mass of them knew no more of any atempt to be made to keep legal voters from the exercise of the right of suffrage than we did The Burdell Estate-The Trial Before the The tranquillity and order that prevailed everywhere else showed that no lawlessness was intended : but a few men at one precinet determined to drive foreigners from the polls, and vey Burdell, has been replaced by an equally succeeded but partially. Those who defended such acts may make themselves responsible. The police could have prevented this attempt | der. polls; and had lost his hat in the retreat. The to trample on the right of suffrage, as can be proved; and they are accountable for not doing We ean't get the organ to look at the fact that the authors of these acts were unmolested by the police. The organ is resolved to be as Ignoraut as the police were blind and deaf These facts were well attested, and took Demo-Know-Nothings to that place? They do not believe that Col. JONES, THE MURDERER .- The Hartford Times revives the recollection of the unexampled villainies of Jones, the murderer of young Jackson, near Westfield, Massachusetts, and for which he had just served out a four years' term in the penitentiary, where his last great crime was committed:

Jones, the murderer, was the coolest scoun drel that ever infested this city. He professed great concern for the souls of sinners, and was instantly reading the Bible and exhorting at cning meetings. Whilst in the confidence of Mr. Dean he stole about $2,000 worth of goods from his store, together with considerable sums of money. He stole the silk to make him a surplice to preach in-started a church in Glastenury-stole the trimmings for the puipit and velvet for his chair, and also stole goods to pay the cabinet maker for the chair, broke into the Catholic church and stole the pricst's robe for a lax, Geotleman, by the author of "The Head of the Family," Only to the Action of "The Head of the Family," Only to the Action of "The Head of the Family," Only the Action of "The Head of the Family," Only the Action of "The Head of the Family," Only the Action of "The Head of the Family," Only the Action of "The Head of the Family," Only the Action of "The Head of the Family," Only the Action of "The Head of the Family," Only the Action of "The Head of the Family," Only the Action of "The Head of the Family," Only the Action of "The Head of the Family, "The Head of the Family," Only the Action of "The Head of the Family, "The Head of the Family," The Head of the Family, "The Head of the Fa velvet for his chair, and also stole goods to pay In Taylor county, Bullitt's majority in all sample for one for himself, and stole also the but one precinet, is 81; that precinet will in Dean's one afternoon to have "a little season of prayer"-remained till evening, bade the famunder the bed occupied by Mr. Dean's son-re mained there till past midnight, when he crep out and robbed young Dean's pockets of $100, which he had ascertained the day previous he appearances. IT We copy the fullowing from the Scientific

THE MENTAL FACULTIES AND PHRENOLOGY Dur actual experience of the human mind i only as we find it in combination with corporca organs. Sir Benjamin Brodic places its seat in the brain, which he states is composed of a con-geries of organs, each having its peculiar funcon, and yet, he believes, that what has been taught as the science of phrenology, has no foundation in fact. He says:

"Now, there are two simple anatomical facts which the founders of this system have overlooked, or with which they were probably unacquainted, and which of themselves afford a sufficient contradiction of it. First: They refer the mere animal propensities chiefly to the osterior lobes and the intellectual faculties to the anterior lobes of the cerebrum; but the fact is, the posterior lobes exist only in the human brain, and in that of some of the tribes of monkeys, and are absolutely wanting in quadru Of this there is no more doubt than there is of any other of the best established facts in anatomy; so that, if phrenology be here, the most marked distinction between man on the one hand, and a eat or a horse, or a sheep, on the extent, and that these are deficient in the latter. Second: Birds have various propensities and faculties in common with us, and in the writings of phrenologists many of their illustra-tions are derived from this class of vertebral animals; but the structure of the bird's brain is essentially different, not only from that of the numan brain, but from that of the brain of the mammalia generally."

And yet, if it is admitted that the brain is a congeries of organs, it seems to us that there is a foundation for the science of phrenology. As science, however, it must be very uncertain because it is principally based on the formation of the casket which contains the organs, not the organs themselves.

ELOPEMENT .- It becomes our duty as a jour nalist to record the finale to a protracted love affair in this city—the parties having eloped to parts unknown to the young lady's parents, and sought a consummation of their long-deferred hopes in claudestine marriage. The young lady is sweet sixteen, having thrown aside her school bag for a broth of a boy, a elerk in an estab lishment in Third street. As usual in such cases, the parents of the dear little creature were deaf to the gentleman's appeals, and she was deaf to parental authority. She eluded the vigilance of the "home folks" by getting permission to spend the night with a school mate. The old gentleman, who has succeeded in running up a long bank account in his own favor, by the manufacture and sale of baker's bread, is kind-hearted, and will be disposed to forgive the naughty pair, who are supposed to have taken passage on the New Albany and Salem Railroad last evening. Their destina tion, we learn, is Shawneetown, Ill.

THE COMET.—The predicted comet of D'Ar rest is now visible in the northwestern part of the heavens, near Ursa Major. The asserting of a French astronomer that this comet would strike the earth, seems to have met with gen eral skepticism. "It is useless to speculate, says Professor Mitchell, "in reference to the possible consequences of a collision with a com et, as there is searcely one chance in million that it can occur. Science has yet discovere no guarantee for a planet against the possible slock of a comet, but an examination of the delicate adjustments of our own system am those of Saturn and Jupiter, would seem to in dicate that in all past time no derangement has ever occurred from such a cause."

IPWe have the particulars of an assault upon Dr. Collum, of Jeffersonville, yesterday morn ing, by two females of this city. The affair of curred at the hotel, at the corner of Spring and Market streets, and the females who made the assault were Mrs. Jackson, formerly a Mrs. Trueman, of Jeffersonville, at present the keeper of a fancy store in Fourth street, in this city. and a female companion named Lindsay. The cause of the attack was a legal effort on the part of the Doctor to collect a small doctor' bill of several year's standing. The weapon used by the women were said to be pistols and cowhides. Dr. Collum, however, disarmed them, we are informed, without much injury to either party.

ONE MORE EVENING .- The ladies havin charge of the Floral Festival at Mozart Helhave determined to continue the same for one night more. They have been induced to do this on account of the very unfavorable weath er, which prevented many from attending the first night. It is to be hoped that their zeal in so charitable an undertaking will be abundant ly rewarded by the attendance on this last even ing of as many as the Hall will contain. The attractions are such as to insure a pleasant evenang to every one, and not the least of these will be a musical entertainment, at which Mons. Colliere will assist.

WESTERN GRAIN.-The Chicago Magazine Mates that 29.0-6.616 but ported from that city last year. It also says "It has been estimated that the average amoun of grain transported each season between Chi cago and Buffillo is 151000 tu-hels by a good propeller, and >),000 by a brig." At this rate the above amount of grain requires a marine equal to 50 propellers and 150 brigs to transport it to the Eastern markets, supposing each to make but one trip during the season.

TrZebedce Shy, whose name does not ap pear to be an insight into his character, was be fore the Police Court yesterday, upon two presentraents-firstly, for assaulting Mrs. Sparks in a market-house, and secondly, upon a peace warrant sued out by the lady's husband. For the first offense he was held in $200 bond to unswer to an assault, and the other proceeding presented to the Police Court yesterday by his were indicted for misdemeanors. The jury wil step clon, Robert Bradburn. It seems that Dunca ster is abusive when drinking, particularly to the members of his own family, toward whom, above all others, he should act with kindness and forbearance. THE FEMALE High School.-The examina on of the voung ladies of the Louisville Female High School, under Prof. Holyoke, the rincipal, commenced yesterday morning. Ais his custom, Prof. Holvoke opened the exercises by reading a chapter from the Bible which was followed by prayer by Rev. M. Heywood, of the Unitarian Church, and a sa red anthem by the musical classes under Prof. Frippe. The first review was that of the econd grade in history, who were examined i lonial and revolutionary annals. Though ot so searching and critical an examination a we have heard, the result was highly satisfae ory, the pupils evincing a thorough knowledge of the subject quite unusual. An informal vale dietory, by Miss Fannie Gaulbert, a sweet ittle girl of the second class, which did her in inite eredit and delighted the visitors. Th French recitations, translations, readings, and ongs, carried one away, in imagination, to the gay metropolis of Paris, where they are s miliar with the French that even the childre peak it. An experiment on the part of Prof Lilman has proved highly successful with hi lesses in this instance. He has taken up the eader at the beginning, giving oral lessons in he grammar as the pupil, in her progress, haeemed to require. He has thus found it quit easy to instill the principles of the grammar y trifling effort as he proceeds with the read ngs. A member of the Board of Trustees, who sa thorough mathematician, expressed unquali fiel gratification with the recitations of the

Prof. Holyoke also introduced a custom yes erday, which he is in the habit of observing ich week in his school-that is, of giving hi upils a subject upon which to write an essay and requiring it to be finished in his presence in given time. He requested any visitor to opose a subject, and that of "Imagination-3 Pleasures and Effects," was submitted, and n hour was allotted in which to complete the emposition. In the midst of the recitations t the close of the hour, some excellent "papers vere produced with slate and pencil. We ould not resist the thought that the effor night be denominated, writing under difficules, and struck us that some of the Professor's ittle Misses were admirably adapted to the rofe sion of local editing-or that they would take charming wives for local editors. These leasant exercises, interspersed with music losed at 10 o'clock, and those present were elighted with the evidence of improvement ven in this excellent school. The examina on will be continued to-day and to-morroweginning at half-past 8 this morning, and losing at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The exhi ition will take place at Mozirt Hall on Monday ening next, when the friends of the school and the public may expect a rare intellectual
